Protecting Yourself from Mosquitoes

All mosquitoes need water for their eggs to develop into adult mosquitoes. (Shallow, stagnant water)

Generally, rain plus seven days = mosquitoes, but when it is really hot, eggs can develop into adult mosquitoes in a shorter period of time.

Many mosquitoes may have found standing water near your home or in your yard.

Draining standing water eliminates mosquito breeding sites!

You can protect yourself by:

- Draining standing water.
- Dressing with long sleeves and long pants/slacks when you are outside between dusk and dawn.
- Making sure screens and screen doors are working properly.
- Using a "good" insect repellent.

Check FOR AN EPA REGISTRATION NUMBER ON ANY REPELLENT YOU ARE GOING TO USE! Check what you have at home. Does it have an EPA label?
